Organisation of English Advanced 11–12

The organisation of focus areas, outcomes and content for English Advanced 11–12 highlights the interdependence of knowledge, understanding and skills in the subject, and the recursive way in which they are developed.

Students develop knowledge, understanding and skills through the focus areas:

Year 11

- Reading to write: Transition to English Advanced
- Narratives that shape our world
- Critical study of literature

Year 12

- Texts and human experiences
- Textual conversations
- Critical study of literature
- The craft of writing

Image long description: The Year 11 focus areas appear in boxes in a row at the top of the diagram, surrounded by a line labelled 'Year 11'. The focus areas are: Reading to write: Transition to English Advanced; Narratives that shape our world; and Critical study of literature. The Year 12 focus areas appear at the bottom of the diagram in boxes in a row, surrounded by a line labelled 'Year 12'. The focus areas are: Texts and human experiences; Textual conversations; Critical study of literature; and The craft of writing. The lines surrounding the Year 11 and 12 focus areas cross through a box in the centre of the diagram, which is titled 'Understanding and responding to texts'.

Protocols for collaborating with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Communities

NESA is committed to working in partnership with Aboriginal Communities and supporting teachers, schools and schooling sectors to improve educational outcomes for young people.

It is important to respect appropriate ways of interacting with Aboriginal Communities and Cultural material when teachers plan, program and implement learning experiences that focus on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Priorities.

Indigenous Cultural and Intellectual Property (ICIP) protocols need to be followed. Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples' ICIP protocols include Cultural Knowledges, Cultural Expression and Cultural Property and documentation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples' Identities and lived experiences. It is important to recognise the diversity and complexity of different Cultural groups in NSW, as protocols may differ between local Aboriginal Communities.

Teachers should work in partnership with Elders, parents, Community members, Cultural Knowledge Holders, or a local, regional or state Aboriginal Education Consultative Group. It is important to respect Elders and the roles of men and women. Local Aboriginal Peoples should be invited to share their Cultural Knowledges with students and staff when engaging with Aboriginal histories and Cultural Practices.

Course description

English Advanced 11–12 provides students the opportunity to refine their understanding of the dynamic relationship between language, texts and meaning through critical study, and the skilful and creative use of language forms, language features, and structures of texts composed for different purposes in a range of contexts. Students develop the knowledge to question, reconsider and refine meaning through language, and to reflect on their own processes of responding, composing and learning.

What students learn

Through the study of English Advanced 11–12, students:

- use clear written and verbal communication skills for a range of purposes and audiences
- seek and evaluate information and arguments to inform their understanding of ideas
- make inferences about the intention and meaning of language based on context
- confidently express personal experiences and opinions and develop knowledge and skills as independent learners.

Course structure and requirements

Year 11 course structure and requirements

Year 11 course (120 hours)	Indicative hours
Reading to write: Transition to English Advanced	40
Narratives that shape our world	40
Critical study of literature	40

For the English Advanced Year 11 course, students are required to:

- complete 120 indicative hours
- complete Reading to write: Transition to English Advanced as the first unit of work
- complete Narratives that shape our world and Critical study of literature.

Text requirements

There are no prescribed texts for Year 11.

Across Stage 6, the selection of texts must give students experience of:

- texts that are widely regarded as quality literature
- a range of Australian texts
- a range of texts authored by Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Peoples
- a range of types of texts inclusive of prose fiction, drama, poetry, nonfiction, film, media and digital texts
- texts with a range of social, cultural and gender perspectives
- integrated modes of reading, writing, listening, speaking, viewing and representing, where appropriate.

Year 12 course structure and requirements

Year 12 course (120 hours)	Indicative hours
Texts and human experiences	30
Textual conversations	30
Critical study of literature	30
The craft of writing	30

For the English Advanced Year 12 course, students are required to:

- complete the Year 11 course as a prerequisite
- complete 120 indicative hours
- complete Texts and human experiences as the first unit of work
- complete Textual conversations, Critical study of literature and The craft of writing.

Text requirements

Students are required to closely study 4 prescribed texts, with at least ONE drawn from each of the following categories:

- prose fiction
- poetry
- drama OR nonfiction OR film OR media.

At least ONE of the texts selected must be authored by Shakespeare.

Across Stage 6, the selection of texts must give students experience of:

- texts that are widely regarded as quality literature
- a range of Australian texts
- a range of texts authored by Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Peoples
- a range of types of texts inclusive of prose fiction, drama, poetry, nonfiction, film, media and digital texts
- texts with a range of social, cultural and gender perspectives
- integrated modes of reading, writing, listening, speaking, viewing and representing, where appropriate.

The HSC English prescriptions 2027–2030 provides essential information for HSC study for all English 11–12 courses.

Safety and risk management

Schools are required to ensure they follow safety and risk management in delivering the English Advanced 11–12 Syllabus.

Texts authored by Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Peoples

Across Stage 6, the study of a range of texts authored by Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Peoples should consider:

- the artistic and Cultural value of these texts, including ideas, arguments and representations of identity, histories and Cultures

- how Country/Place, Community and lived experiences shape the perspectives of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Storytellers and audiences
- ethical responsibilities surrounding Indigenous Cultural and Intellectual Property (ICIP) in the production of texts
- how Storytelling, Aboriginal Languages and Aboriginal English are expressions of Culture, identity and Customary practices
- how the modes of these texts may recognise and contribute to Cultural conventions or practices of oral Storytelling
- how Cultural symbolism, imagery, allusion and irony are used to shape meaning
- how personal values and perspectives are broadened and reconsidered through engagement with these texts
- texts that originate from a range of diverse Communities.

Rationale

Rationale for English in Stage 6 curriculum

In acknowledgement of its role as the national language, English is a mandatory subject from Kindergarten to Year 12 in the NSW curriculum. Knowledge, understanding and skills acquired in English are central to students' learning and development.

Language and text shape understanding of individuals and the world. Language allows students to relate to others, and contributes to their intellectual, social and emotional development. In English K–12, students study language in its various textual forms, with increasing complexity, to understand how meaning is shaped, conveyed, interpreted and reflected.

Students engage with literature from Australia and across the world, and develop an understanding of the diversity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples and the interconnections of Country/Place, Culture and Community. Texts communicate in distinctive ways and are shaped by experiences, knowledge and cultures. By exploring past and contemporary text with a range of cultural and social perspectives, students broaden their experiences and become empowered in their identities, values and ethics.

Through interrelated practices and experiences in understanding and creating texts, students explore the power, purpose, value and art of English. These practices and experiences support students to become literate and confident communicators, critical and imaginative thinkers, and informed and active participants in society.

The study of English in this syllabus is founded on the belief that language learning is recursive and develops through ever-widening contexts. Students learn English through explicit teaching of language and literacy, and through their engagement with a range of purposeful and increasingly demanding textual experiences.

Rationale for English Advanced

The English Advanced 11–12 Syllabus is designed for students who have a particular interest and ability in a subject that will enrich their personal, intellectual, academic, social and vocational lives. Students appreciate, analyse, evaluate and respond imaginatively and critically to literary texts drawn from a range of contexts and cultures, including literature from the past and present and from Australia. They study challenging written, spoken, visual, multimodal and digital texts that represent and reflect a changing world.

Students extend and deepen their ability to use language in nuanced, inventive and complex ways to express experiences, ideas and perspectives. They refine their understanding of the relationship between language, texts, context and meaning. Students extend their experiences in researching, accessing, evaluating and synthesising information and perspectives from a range of sources to fulfil a variety of purposes.

Through exploring and experimenting with processes of understanding and responding to texts, students develop an understanding of how language is employed to create artistic expression in texts. They analyse the different ways texts may reflect, challenge and extend the conventions of other texts. They evaluate the meanings conveyed in these texts, and how meaning is achieved. Students expand their skills as independent, collaborative and reflective learners required for post-school life, including the world of work and post-school training and education.

Aim

The aim of English in Years 11 and 12 is to enable students to understand and use language effectively. Students have opportunities to appreciate, reflect on and enjoy literature, and make meaning in ways that are imaginative, creative, interpretive, critical and powerful. Students value the English language in its various textual forms to become thoughtful and effective communicators in a diverse world.

Outcomes and content for Year 11

Reading to write: Transition to English Advanced

Outcomes

A student:

- analyses the ways an author's choice of language, form and structure shapes meaning in texts of different modes and mediums EAV-11-01
- analyses the relationships between texts through context, form and language EAV-11-02
- analyses the ways context and values influence composition and audience response EAV-11-03
- composes texts using language forms and features in new and different contexts EAV-11-04
- composes critical and creative texts for a range of audiences and purposes EAV-11-05
- evaluates own compositional processes and the ways choice of language, form and structure can shape meaning EAV-11-06

Content

Students undertake the intensive and close reading of quality texts from a range of modes and mediums. In doing so, they develop the knowledge to appreciate, interpret, analyse and evaluate the ways texts convey complex ideas, relationships, endeavours and scenarios. Students develop the capacity to respond perceptively to texts through their own thoughtful writing and judicious reflection on their knowledge and skills as writers. Students read texts that are aesthetically, stylistically and conceptually engaging and that inspire or provoke them to respond critically and creatively. Through the study of texts, students can develop insights into the world around them, deepen their understanding of themselves and the lives of others, and enhance their enjoyment of reading.

Understanding

- The aesthetic qualities of quality texts and the power of language to express ideas and experiences
- The relationship between reader, writer, text and context, and how and why texts position readers
- The ways language features, text structures and stylistic choices shape ideas, perspectives and experiences in familiar and unfamiliar texts
- The conventions of genre and the ways texts may conform to or subvert these conventions

Responding

- Compose persuasive, discursive, imaginative and reflective texts that experiment with language features and emerging textual forms
- Compose texts that explore a range of personal, social, historical and cultural meanings
- Use appropriate metalanguage and textual forms to reflect on the processes of writing
- Draft, edit, revise and refine texts for a range of audiences and purposes
- Use accurate spelling, punctuation, syntax and metalanguage in creating complex critical and creative texts

Narratives that shape our world

Outcomes

A student:

- analyses the ways an author's choice of language, form and structure shapes meaning in texts of different modes and mediums EAV-11-01
- analyses the relationships between texts through context, form and language EAV-11-02
- analyses the ways context and values influence composition and audience response EAV-11-03
- composes texts using language forms and features in new and different contexts EAV-11-04
- composes critical and creative texts for a range of audiences and purposes EAV-11-05
- evaluates own compositional processes and the ways choice of language, form and structure can shape meaning EAV-11-06

Content

Students explore a range of narratives from across historical and contemporary contexts, connected through ideas, values and attitudes. By exploring print, multimodal and digital narratives, they deepen their understanding of the ways narratives influence meaning across various modes, mediums and forms. They analyse the ways narratives and oral histories shape individual and communal perceptions and representations, as well as how narratives are shaped by the perspectives and values of both authors and readers. They evaluate the impact of storytelling on societies past and present, and explore the ways narratives connect people across cultures, communities and historical periods. Students explore the potential for narratives to incite change, foster stability, and challenge or reinforce cultural norms, and investigate how narratives can be adapted, reimagined or reconceptualised for new audiences.

Understanding

- The ways personal, social, historical and cultural contexts can shape meaning
- Mode, medium and form, and the ways they influence meaning and shape responses to texts
- The ways authors adapt textual form, language features and structures of texts from a range of genres, periods and cultures in new texts, including through appropriation, intertextuality and literary allusion
- The similarities and differences within and between texts linked by form, perspective or genre

Responding

- Compare specific uses of language in a range of textual forms
- Compare perspectives in texts from a range of personal, social, historical and cultural contexts
- Select and adapt particular aspects of texts to create new texts
- Compose critical and creative texts that synthesise complex ideas
- Use appropriate language to make connections between and speculate about texts, and to question, affirm and challenge texts with increasing clarity

Critical study of literature

Outcomes

A student:

- analyses the ways an author's choice of language, form and structure shapes meaning in texts of different modes and mediums EAV-11-01
- analyses the relationships between texts through context, form and language EAV-11-02
- analyses the ways context and values influence composition and audience response EAV-11-03
- composes texts using language forms and features in new and different contexts EAV-11-04
- composes critical and creative texts for a range of audiences and purposes EAV-11-05
- evaluates own compositional processes and the ways choice of language, form and structure can shape meaning EAV-11-06

Content

Students develop analytical and critical knowledge of a substantial literary text. Through increasingly informed personal responses to the text in its entirety, students develop their understanding and appreciation of the text's distinctive qualities, meaning and value. Students explore how the author's ideas are expressed in the text by analysing its construction, content and language. This allows them to develop their own interpretations of the text, basing their judgements on evidence drawn from their research and reading, enabling the development of a deeper and richer understanding of the text. Students consider the context of the text's composition and reception, investigate the perspectives of others, and explore the ideas in the text, further strengthening their personal perspectives.

Understanding

- The ways a text can be valued for its themes, aesthetic qualities and representation of ideas, values and attitudes
- The ways particular texts are influenced by other texts and contexts
- The ways a text may conform to or subvert conventions of form, genre or style
- Language, style and form, and the ways they support interpretations of a text
- The effect of language choices in a range of personal, social and cultural contexts, and how these choices can influence meaning

Responding

- Compose informed personal responses to texts, supported by critical perspectives and close textual analysis
- Compose sustained, structured arguments that synthesise complex ideas, using relevant textual evidence
- Compose texts that integrate elements of form, personal voice, language and content for a variety of audiences and purposes
- Use the language of analysis and literary criticism to shape their own interpretations of a complex text

Outcomes and content for Year 12

Texts and human experiences

Outcomes

A student:

- critically analyses the ways an author's choice of language, form and structure shapes meaning in complex texts of different modes and mediums EAV-12-01
- evaluates the relationships between texts through context, form and language EAV-12-02
- evaluates the ways context and values influence composition and audience response EAV-12-03
- composes texts using language forms and features in new and different contexts EAV-12-04
- composes critical and creative texts for a range of audiences and purposes EAV-12-05
- evaluates own compositional processes and the ways choice of language, form and structure can shape meaning EAV-12-06

Content

Students deepen their understanding of how texts represent individual and collective human experiences. They examine how texts represent emotions and qualities related to these experiences. By responding to a range of texts, students explore how texts provide insight into emotional, intellectual, physical, cultural and lived experiences. They explore the ways texts represent identity, culture, acceptance and growth, invite the reader to see the world differently, and challenge assumptions. Students explore how texts can represent the tension between agency and conformity in our human experience, while examining the paradoxes of motivation and behaviour. Through critical and creative responses to texts, students consider the ways that texts encourage them to reflect personally and challenge their assumptions about the nature of human experience.

Understanding

- The language, forms and features of texts that shape meaning for different audiences and purposes in familiar and unfamiliar texts
- The language, forms and features of texts that shape a range of perspectives, personal and public worlds, and diverse human experiences
- The aesthetic qualities of texts and the power of language to express personal ideas and experiences
- Language used for making connections, questioning, affirming, challenging and speculating about texts
- The evaluative language and metalanguage used to make informed judgements about texts and express personal perspectives

Responding

- Develop creative, informed and sustained interpretations of texts, supported by close textual analysis
- Compose creative and critical texts that affirm or challenge ideas, values and perspectives represented in a range of texts
- Compose texts using structures, language features and stylistic elements for specific audiences, to reinterpret ideas and perspectives

Textual conversations

Outcomes

A student:

- critically analyses the ways an author's choice of language, form and structure shapes meaning in complex texts of different modes and mediums EAV-12-01
- evaluates the relationships between texts through context, form and language EAV-12-02
- evaluates the ways context and values influence composition and audience response EAV-12-03
- composes texts using language forms and features in new and different contexts EAV-12-04
- composes critical and creative texts for a range of audiences and purposes EAV-12-05
- evaluates own compositional processes and the ways choice of language, form and structure can shape meaning EAV-12-06

Content

Students explore the ways in which the comparative study of texts can reveal resonances and dissonances within and between texts. Students identify, interpret, analyse and evaluate the textual features, conventions, contexts, values and purposes of TWO prescribed texts. By comparing TWO texts, students understand how authors are influenced by other texts, contexts and values, and how these shape meaning. Through their comparative study, they explore common or disparate issues, values, assumptions or perspectives, and the ways these are depicted. By responding imaginatively, interpretively and critically to the comparative study, students explore and evaluate individual and common textual features, concepts, ideas and values.

Understanding

- The relationship between reader, author, text and context
- Text structures, including mode, medium, form, language features and stylistic elements, and the ways they shape meaning
- The influence of context and values on the perspectives and ideas in texts
- Theme, genre and aesthetic elements, and the ways they are used to represent personal and public worlds and influence responses
- The influence of historical and cultural context across a pair of texts
- The ways a comparative study creates a new understanding and appreciation of each text

Responding

- Compose texts that explore text structures, language features and stylistic elements from different contexts to deepen understanding of how meaning is made
- Compare and evaluate textual form and language features in a pair of texts
- Compose sustained critical texts that affirm and challenge ideas, values and perspectives in a pair of texts
- Use the language of critical and creative expression to refine arguments and craft sustained writing
- Apply appropriate language and terminology used for making connections, interpreting texts and shaping meaning

Critical study of literature

Outcomes

A student:

- critically analyses the ways an author's choice of language, form and structure shapes meaning in complex texts of different modes and mediums EAV-12-01
- evaluates the relationships between texts through context, form and language EAV-12-02
- evaluates the ways context and values influence composition and audience response EAV-12-03
- composes texts using language forms and features in new and different contexts EAV-12-04
- composes critical and creative texts for a range of audiences and purposes EAV-12-05
- evaluates own compositional processes and the ways choice of language, form and structure can shape meaning EAV-12-06

Content

Students develop detailed analytical and critical knowledge of a substantial literary text. Through increasingly informed personal responses to the text in its entirety, students understand and appreciate the text's distinctive qualities, notions of meaning, and significance. Students study ONE prescribed text, focusing on an analysis of the text's construction, content and language. This enables students to develop informed personal perspectives of the text as well as an understanding of its cultural contribution, basing their judgements on evidence drawn from their critical reading. They evaluate the context of the text's composition and reception, investigate and evaluate the perspectives of others, and explore the ideas in the text, further strengthening their personal perspectives.

Understanding

- The relationship between reader, author, text and context
- The ways a text can be valued for its aesthetic qualities, text structures, language features and stylistic elements
- The language of critical expression in refining arguments and interpreting texts
- The ways mode, medium and form shape and inform responses to texts
- The ways language forms, features and structures are used to represent a range of perspectives
- The ways texts can reflect, confirm and challenge expectations associated with particular genres and styles
- The ways context can shape social, moral and ethical perspectives in texts
- The effect of theme and genre, and how these can influence a text's value

Responding

- Compose critical texts that affirm or challenge the ideas, values and perspectives represented in a complex text
- Compose informed personal responses shaped by critical interpretations of texts and textual analysis
- Support critical interpretations of texts through sustained argument and relevant textual analysis

The craft of writing

Outcomes

A student:

- critically analyses the ways an author's choice of language, form and structure shapes meaning in complex texts of different modes and mediums EAV-12-01
- evaluates the relationships between texts through context, form and language EAV-12-02
- evaluates the ways context and values influence composition and audience response EAV-12-03
- composes texts using language forms and features in new and different contexts EAV-12-04
- composes critical and creative texts for a range of audiences and purposes EAV-12-05
- evaluates own compositional processes and the ways choice of language, form and structure can shape meaning EAV-12-06

Content

Students strengthen and extend their knowledge and skills as accomplished writers. They write for a range of purposes and audiences, using language to convey ideas with power and precision. Through the study of quality texts of the past as well as recognised contemporary works, students reflect on the process of writing and apply their knowledge of structure, language and form to create their own sustained and cohesive compositions. These provide models and stimulus for the development of their own complex ideas and written expression. They evaluate how writers use language critically, creatively and imaginatively for a range of purposes, including to express insights, evoke emotion, shape perspective or share aesthetic vision.

Students generate and explore various concepts through discussion and speculation. Through drafting and revising, they experiment with figurative, rhetorical and linguistic devices, including allusion, imagery, narrative voice, characterisation and tone. Students consider context, purpose and audience to deliberately shape meaning in their own compositions. They apply the conventions of spelling, punctuation and grammar appropriately in critical, creative and imaginative writing. Students also reflect on the processes of writing to develop their knowledge of textual forms and features in their own sustained and cohesive compositions.

Students refine and strengthen their own skills in composing highly crafted, imaginative, discursive, persuasive and reflective texts.

Understanding

- The aesthetic qualities of texts and the power of language to express ideas, perspectives and experiences
- The forms, language features and stylistic choices that shape imaginative, discursive, persuasive and reflective texts

Responding

- Compose personal, critical and creative texts that experiment with emerging forms, language features and literary devices including imagery, motif and allusion
- Compose texts that use the language of critical and creative expression
- Compose imaginative, discursive, persuasive and reflective texts that affirm or challenge ideas, values and perspectives represented in texts
- Use metalanguage to assess and reflect on their own process of writing and the writing of others
- Draft, reflect, edit, refine, revise and present texts for a range of audiences and purposes
